To whom it may concern

I am a regular visitor to the Kyaloma area and am deeply concerned about the proposed logging to take place here. I am particularly disturbed to hear this has happened without community consultation and without regard for the ecology and environment.

It is impossible to understand the logic of this action. Tourism is the primary industry that supports these communities. They come here to enjoy the beautiful surroundings and commune with nature. Your actions will destroy local habitat, flora and fauna and then their areas will no longer be attractive for tourists now and for generations to come. You are only considering the short term gain, and not the long term pain of these actions. It is immoral and irresponsible to sanction logging in these wonderful ancient forest. The people are fed up with politicians who pay lip service to their constituents. You have a responsibility to represent all of the people and the majority want this land preserved for future generations.

Do the right thing and do your job

Yours sincerely,
